

STATEMENT ON CONTINUOUS PALLIATIVE SEDATION THERAPY November 2017

The Canadian Society of Palliative Care Physicians (CSPCP) strongly recommends that all physicians practicing Continuous Palliative Sedation Therapy (CPST) create or adopt a specific policy on CPST for their practice group or institution. This will ensure that CPST is a transparent practice that is easily distinguished from practices that hasten death and subject to best practice.

In alignment with the Framework for Continuous Palliative Sedation Therapy, elements of a policy include:

- palliative approach to care in place
- patient characteristics: severe, refractory symptoms
- estimated prognosis less than two weeks
- explicit consent process
- patient informed consent: ideal
- family participation: encouraged to form consensus agreement
- incompetent patient: patient proxy and family members with use of advance directives or consensus about patient wishes and best interests to make decision
- second opinion: from palliative care consultant (telephone consult or e-consult is acceptable)
- medical staff participation and staff consent required for their participation
- medication selection and titration according to availability and best practice
